Community Organization Spotlight: Andy Mast Gallery

Meet Andy Mast, a pencil artist of remarkable talent, he discovered our community while following his artistic dreams, and by 2017, he proudly called Westcliffe home. For Andy, Westcliffe is an inspiration. The serene pace of our town and its subtle moments have often been captured through the strokes of his pencil. His gallery, housed in the historic Otto Voss' gas station, stands as a testament to his appreciation for Westcliffe's rich history. His heartwarming message to us all? "Pursue your passion. There you will find purpose." With every sketch and artwork, Andy effortlessly weaves his story into the fabric of Westcliffe, reflecting the beauty and essence of our community. Through art, passion, and purpose, Andy's contribution to Westcliffe shines as an artistic guide for all.

Town Staff Spotlight: Kathy

Deep-rooted in Westcliffe, Kathy Reis cherishes memories like enjoying mountain views from her patio. A resident for 33 years, Kathy's connection to the town began in 1949 with her family's property acquisition. The Christmas parade warms her heart, uniting the community in festive joy. Beyond official duties, her passion for antique tractors shines, especially with her involvement in the Arkansas Valley Flywheelers since 2006, aiming to preserve history for future generations. Kathy's wisdom for the community? "Meet every challenge with a smile and a happy heart." Advocating for a more scenic entrance, she hopes to see reduced signage on Highway 96. Here's to celebrating the dedication and spirit of our town's pillars like Kathy!

Community Member Spotlight: Leslie

Known to many in Westcliffe, Leslie Parkes has enriched our community for a decade. Originally discovering the allure of the Wet Mountain Valley in 1990 during a family camp at Horn Creek, Leslie and their family quickly found themselves captivated by Westcliffe's magnetic charm. The Easter Sunrise service atop the bluff stands as a cherished tradition. Actively contributing, Leslie has been part of the Board of Trustees, the Sheriff's posse, and the Baptist Church. In leisure, they navigate Westcliffe's backroads on their ATV. With a vision for Westcliffe's charm, Leslie suggests adding hitching posts for horses, capturing their hope to "keep Westcliffe the small, friendly mountain town that it is." Their dedication beautifully resonates with Westcliffe's essence.
